THE MOTHER'S STORY. What Mrs. Anderson Says in Regard to Her Daughter's Flight.

THE PARENTAL OPPOSITION TO SADIE'S MARRIAGE

McAvoy of the Baltimore veterans. day afternoon from Postes' mother's home on Polk street to a suite of furnished rooms at Mrs. Strecker's, on Jackson street. Mr. Poates. accompanied by Mr. Griffith, went yesterday to the Anderson home, at the corner of Washington and Adams streets, for the clothes and cursion and from the Baltimore veterans other things which Mrs. Poates carried there just previous to her departure. Mrs. Anderson, his mother-in-law, refused to give them to him and forbade him the premises, as she says, owing to his insolence. Mr. and Mrs. Poates then went to Washington and had a long interview with their attorney, Mr. Albert Sillers, who advised the young pair to push the case right along. This is an action against Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Anderson to recover $2,000 damages for defamation of the character of Postes and alienation of his wife s affections. Officer An-derson had an accidental and touching meeting with his daughter yesterday afternoon on Washington between Fillmore and Pierce He told her that she could get streets. her clothes, or, if she would, make her home at his house. He asked her at least to come and see them whenever she could and that they would not talk about the trouble, but that he would have nothing to do with Poates. Mr. and Mrs. Poates, after moving into their new quarters, held quite a little reception. Several unshaken friends came in, and a general chat about the events of the last few days was had. Several little tokens—packages of bon bons, boxes of glace fruits, preserves and cake—were brought in. Poates will resume his trade in a day or so at Mitchell's blacksmith shopin Wash-A STAR reporter found Mr. and Mrs. Anderson at home and in any but happy spirits. They had just read Mrs. Poates' account of the trans-action and both expressed bitter regret for the unfortunate affair. Mrs. Anderson said: "We were strenuously opposed to the attentions which John began to pay Sadie in February last and sought to break off the acquaintance by forbidding John the house. They then met clandestinely at the residences of Mrs. Sue King and Mrs. Louise B. Pitcher. Sadie's clothes were smuggled from home and taken to the latter lady's house. From here also Sadie went to Mrs. Frank Henry's in Washington, where she and John were married by Rev. Mr. Baker. We received our first notification of the marriage through THE STAR. We had lavished money on Sadie's educa-tion and indulged her every whim and of course felt humilisted that she had chosen for a husband one who was working sixteen hours and getting $1.06 a day as conductor on the Anacostia railroad. But we made the best of it. They took rooms with their grandma and ate their meals with us. We would not permit them to pay board. After John would go to work Sadie would lounge around the house, play her favorite authors, sketch and do just as she had always done. SUGGESTIONS OF UNHAPPINESS.

WHAT THE MOTHER SAYS.

"At length she began to let fall slight suggestions that her married life was not happy. Toward the end she grew bolder and told of the bad habits to which, she said, John was addicted and of the annoyance which his many ereditors gave her. She said she was dis-gusted with him, abhored his low ways and declared that she could not stay with him, and that there must be a separation, sooner or later. On Sundays when she went to Dr. Mc-Cullough's church as organist she would always Mr. James J. vised her to stay with friends in the city, but she said: 'No. I'll go away.'" Mrs. Anderson then produced two letters from Mrs. Poates, one to her mother and one to an aunt, both bearing date of Phikadelphia, Sunday, August 30. In the one to her mother Mrs. Poates strongly animadverts Mrs. King and Mrs. Pitcher, and signs herself Sadie A., with the A. underscored. Mrs. Poates wrote that she would like to come back to Washington and stay at her aunt's, saying that John would not now hunt for her there. Sunday night at 10 o'clock Officer Anderson wired her to come on. She left at noon, reached Washington at 4, met her husband at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 6th street and went with him to his mother's house.

During the interview Officer Anderson stood by and frequently chimed in to corroborate his wife. Both parents seem heart broken and

Mr. J. R. Brown presented a glass case in which to preserve the smaller relics.
President Richards stated that they had found a piece of apparatus—the old Columbia suction—and a letter had been written order-ing it to be shipped here from Lexington, Va. They had a subscription paper and already the members had subscribed $150 to purchase it and pay some other expenses, and he compli-mented the membership on their liberality.

The subject of a certificate of membership was discussed and laid over.

Mr. W. S. Martin, from the committee on excursion, reported that the net proceeds (with 85 tickets out) were $118.50, and A. J. Cumis-key and W. S. Martin, each having over 150 tickets, were entitled to uniforms. Mr. J. W. Thompson spoke of the pleasure of meeting Messrs. Spedden and McAvoy of Baltimore and expressed the hope that they would never be gray headed, but would live long to run and halloo.

Mr. Spedden responded and expressed the hope of a large delegation going to Atlantic City with them. President Richards reported that with the officers the certificate of life membership and resolutions of thanks to Col Webster for the gift of a flag had been prepared and presented to him; that they were cordially received and entertained.

Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. J. Karr for the donation of a handsome clock and to H. H. Hempler for thermometers.

ball's Court This Morning. There were six females in the first procession men's Association was held last evening at their of prisoners in the Police Court today and vestigation of the daring assault and robbery among them was a small colored girl named Katie Cross. Her case troubled Judge Kimball more than any other, because of the conduct of such a young girl and also because there was no place to send her except the work house or jail. Policeman Jamison appeared against the girl and he gave his opinon that the girl was a sneak thief. "She has Grigsby, alias "Greasy" Tom, in the work not been home for a week," said the officer, "but with other girls she has been sneaking in James West, another young colored man, be-

Annie Robinson, a colored woman, plead guilty to a charge of vagrancy and started back toward the cell, but Policeman Whalen called the judge's attention to the circumstances in the case. The woman was found in a fish house near the wharf with three male friends. She was thereupon given the extent of the house, was next to appear for trial, and she shed tears as though it was her first appearance and she was trying to gain the court's sympathy. Annie was not perfectly sober, although she had been locked up over night. Policeman Donovan told of her disgraceful conduct on the street, but Annie begged so hard that the judge gave her a light sentence—thirty days on the farm in default of bonds.

Mary E. Fortune and Charity Hawkins plead guilty to charges of disorderly and were fined $5 or fifteen days each.
Lizzie Fortune, a colored woman, pretended that she did not understand what vagrancy meant and Judge Kimball proceeded to give her the necessary in structions. Lizzie then entered a protest to what Policeman McNeely said she was guilty of on Gallagher's Hill.

"Where is Gallagher's Hill?"
"In 'Foggy Bottom."

HAD TO PAY FOR CARRYING A PISTOL. Edward Stewart, a young colored man who said he was dressed in fine style to leave the city when he was arrested, was accused of carrying a loaded revolver.
"I got information that Stewart had been carrying a pistol," said Policeman McDonnell, "and last night I spoke to him about it. He after banking hours, because counsel had said that Ned had money in bank. Counsel made a lengthy plea in behalf of his client, and Judge Kimball said he would give Stewart the benealt of the conditions stated by counsel and would impose a fine of only $30 or sixty days.

WAS DRUNK, BUT NOT A VAG. "I'm guilty of being drunk, but I ain't no vag," was Frank McQuire's plea to a charge of vagrancy. Found drunk in Seaton Park was the specific charge against him. Policeman O'Brien stated the case to the court and told of the man's drunken condition when he found him sitting in the park. Frank promised to do better in the future and the judge released him on his own recognizance.

"Deed, judge, I didn't throw no stones," said Dick Spriggs, a colored boy who was charged with throwing stones. Policeman Dyer "The normal rate is about 100. Deaths among that's why Judge Kimball said, "Ten dollars or thirty days."

Bill Wharton, a Georgetown negro, fell asleep on a doorstep near Frederick and R streets last night and Policeman Bradley had to ham-cutfit and a bag of clothing. In his camping kit he had pots, pans and dishes, and there was even a napkin among them. The old man, according to his story, tramped here from New Jersey, and he said he was going to no particular place.

"Where's your home?" the judge asked.

"Wherever I stop and get a job of work,"
was his response. "I came here from New ersey."
The old citizen from nowhere told his story.

"I came to town yesterday," he said, "and met the policeman. I pointed to the sky and was white brimstone."
"Was this man a delegate to the scientists' convention or was he with the geologists?' Judge Kimball gave Dennis a home for thirty days.

Mary Burch was brought in as a vagrant and the judge sent her down for sixty days. She was defended by Lawyer Moss, and Mr. She was defended by Lawyer Moss, and that so-Dumont, commenting on the case, said that so-ciety had to be protected and that these people should be made to remain in doors.

Tim Conners disturbed the quiet of Georgetown and he admitted his guilt. Five dollars or fifteen days.

AMUSEMENTS.

ROBERT DOWNING IN THE "GLADIATOR."-It was an ambitious attempt on the part of Mr. Robert Downing to play Saumet's "Gladiator." That he scored a popular success in the difficult role of Nero was abundantly evidenced by the enthusiasm of the large audience which filled every seat at the National Theater last night.

Applause was frequent and Mr. Downing was called before the curtain after every act, sometimes again and again. While some of this enthusiasm was possibly due to the personal popularity of the star a larger portion was evoked by his spirited and forceful acting. #### ALEXANDRIA. THE FIELD OF LOCAL POLITICS.

As the time of the fall election approaches somewhat more interest begins to be manifested A colored democratic club, has been organized the John A Palmer Club, has been organized the John and that she now knew how to appreciate the certification of the execution of a residence on his "No. 6" for the event of the count in political affairs, but the interest is still lanthe candidates, as the majority nominee in each district will, under the rule adopted, select his delegates from that district. As both the Fairfax and Prince William democratic committees have agreed to al-low Alexandria to name their candi-date for the state senate, the primaries on the 10th will, in fact, determine in advance the question that the senatorial convention, which meets in October, has been called upon to setmeets in Ostober, has been caned upon to set-tle, and which convention will simply confirm the action of the Alexandria primaries. The choice of a democratic candidate for the house of delegates will also be determined at the primaries on the 10th instant. All these movements are on the democratic side. The republicans have as yet taken no action in relation to the canvass.

WASHINGTON'S ALEXANDRIA MARGIN. The jurisdiction of the District authorities over the harbor of Alexandria was never realized until the "Joe Blackburn" police boat began her cruises in front of this city. It is now known that the District authority extends over everything in the water and not attached to the land in front of this city. The taking up of a sturgeon net and the arrest of Mr. Geo W. Windsor in Alexandria harbor by the Wash ington police occasioned some surprise here.
Mr. Windsor came back with his net yesterday from Washington, the case having been nolle prossed in the Police Court, as Mr. Windsor had cast his net in ignorance of the jurisdiction.

UNITED STATES COURT. The United States court, Judge Hughes, has opened its session here. The case of Molloy gainst Linton & Pullman has been dismissed and in the case of the United States against S. P. Loughorough, for violating the postal laws, a demurrer to the indictment has been filed. NOTES.

The issue of permits for attendance on the white public schools was continued today, and There were eight marriage licenses issued here by the clerk of the corporation court and five Alexandria couple received licenses in Washington.

DEATH OF MRS. CATHERINE SMITH.

Mrs. Catherine Smith, an estimable colored woman, died at 9:30 o'clock Monday night at honday of the stimable colored woman, died at 9:30 o'clock Monday night at honday night her home on Sumner avenue, Hillsdale. She had long been a sufferer from cancer of the breast. This was the cause of death. Mrs. Smith was Miss Catherine Tinker and was born forty-five years ago on the Compton plantation, between Hilltop and Port Tobacco, Charles county, and during slavery was owned by Hon. Barnes Compton, Congressman from the fifth Mary-land district. In 1859 she was married to Clem land district. In 1859 she was married to Clem Smith, who survives her. Eleven of their thirteen children are dead. The two remaining are little girls aged six and eight years. The deceased was very charitable and a member of Ebenezer A. M. E. Church of Washington. Three of her sisters, Margaret Henson, Mary Emily Perry and Matilda Barnes, are living. One brother, Alexander, was separated from her in slavery and his whereabouts is not known. NOTES.
